System Security Masterclass

Learn how to keep your business data secure

What can it teach me

The threat from viruses is growing at an alarming rate and the risk to businesses who depend on their IT has never been higher, with many businesses now using an 'always on' Internet connection, knowing how to secure your system is a must

Attending this Masterclass will help you if you are a small business wishing to gain a better understanding of potential security risks. The Masterclass will give you a good understanding of how to

- secure your IT systems and information from unauthorised access using both physical and logical security
- Assess security risks from internal, external, accidental & malicious threats
- Use preventative methods for safeguarding your systems.

Whilst a slide presentation forms the backdrop to this workshop, an interactive approach is encouraged with work tools and sample equipment

Masterclass Leader

Terry Sambrooks will lead this Masterclass, his knowledge and practical experience working with system security has come from over 3 decades of working with company's such as BT, Barclays and Unilever

Terry has been with The Watershed for over two years working with small businesses and helping them develop their IT and their security, he is Technology Means Business accredited (The national standard for business IT advice)

What you will learn

The workshop is aimed at single PC users with an Internet connection, through to network administrators

On completion you will be able to:

Explain the difference between a Virus, Worm, and Trojan Horse, and take steps to eliminate them

Assess the risk of not having a Firewall and install one if required

Assess the need for appropriate employee procedures for data handling and implement in your business

Assess the need of backing up data and storing it at an appropriate location and implement in your business
